

What are the most frequently rented family friendly movies per category and in which category does the most frequently rented movie belong?

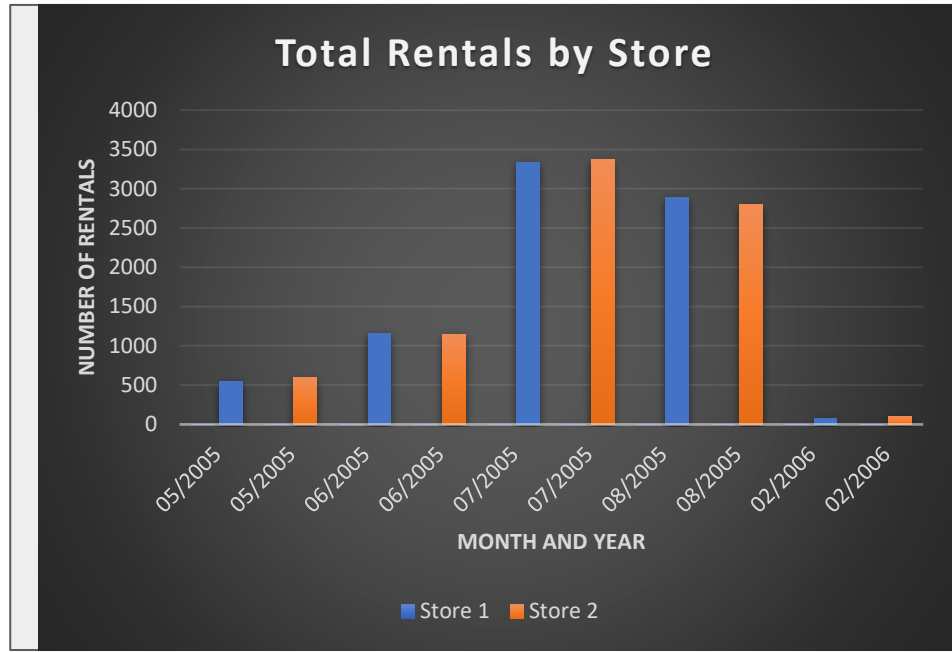

As shown here, the most frequently rented movies are both Juggler Hardly and Scalawag Duck, which belong in the Animation and Music category respectively.

Is there a significant correlation between the category of movie and the length of rental duration?

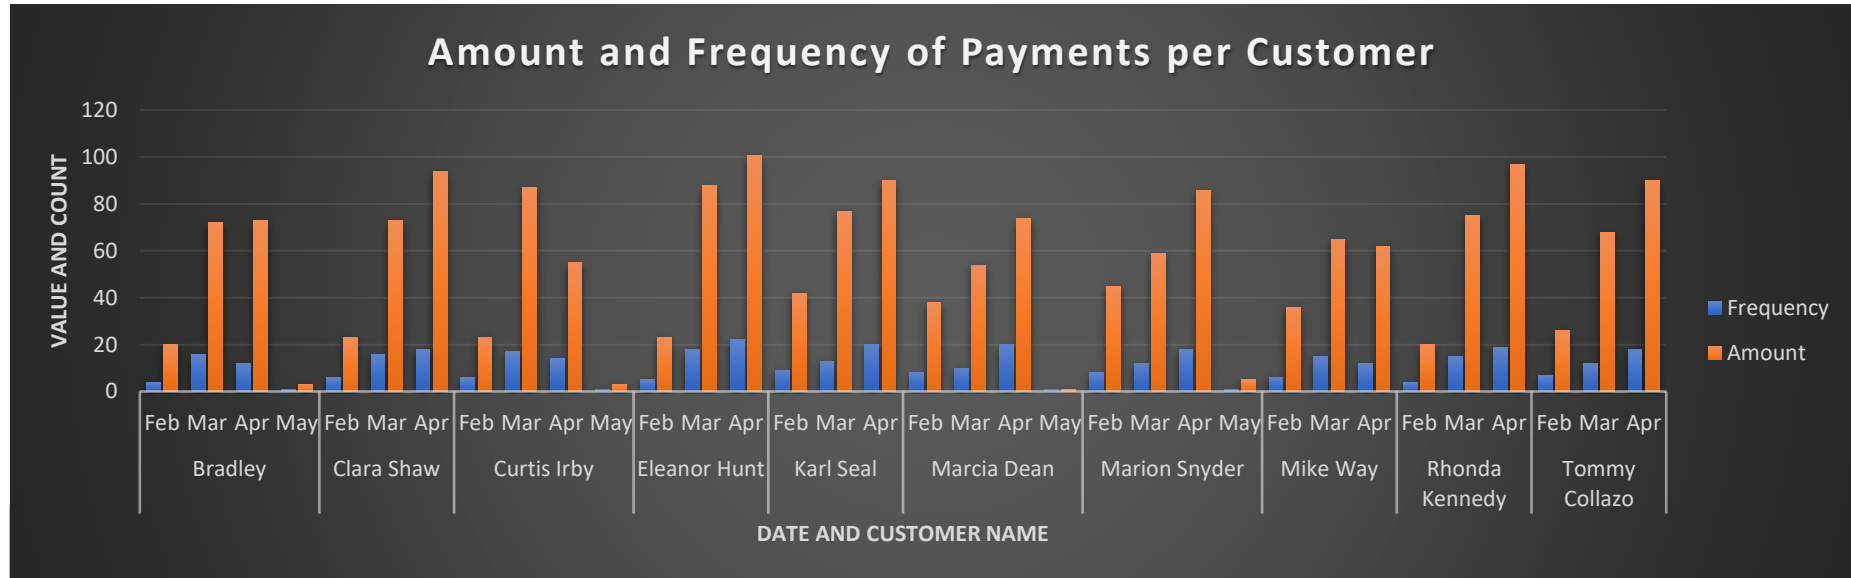

The chart shows animated movies tend to be rented for both the least amount of time and, alongside family movies, the most amount of time. There seems to be no significant correlation between the category of movie and the length of rental duration.

Is there a significant difference between the number of rentals made in each of the two stores?

As you can see, there is no significant difference between the total number of rentals made in each store.

Who were the top 10 paying customers overall, who made the highest monthly payment and who made the most frequent payments in a single month?

We can see from the chart above that, in April, Eleanor Hunt made both the highest single monthly payment and highest number of payments in a single month.